PROGRAM REPORT

NAVIGATING INNOVATION IN TOURISM: A SEMINAR ON INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS (IPR) AND RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

24.01.2022

The seminar on "Navigating Innovation in Tourism" held on 24th January 2022 at 10:00 AM to 12:00 PM in the S5 BTTM class was a significant event aimed at exploring the intersections of Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) and research methodology in the context of the tourism industry. Dr. Nayana, a distinguished expert in the field, served as the speaker for the seminar. Dr. Nayana commenced the seminar by providing a comprehensive overview of Intellectual Property Rights. She elaborated on the various forms of IPR, such as patents, copyrights, trademarks, and trade secrets, and their relevance in the tourism sector. The participants gained insights into protecting innovative ideas and creations within the industry. The speaker delved into the critical role of IPR in fostering innovation within the tourism domain. Real-world examples and case studies were presented to showcase how effective IPR strategies contribute to the growth and sustainability of tourism-related businesses. Dr. Nayana discussed various research approaches, data collection methods, and analysis techniques specific to the tourism sector. This segment aimed to equip participants with the tools necessary for conducting meaningful and impactful research in the field. The seminar on "Navigating Innovation in Tourism" provided valuable insights into the intricate relationship between Intellectual Property Rights and research methodologies in the tourism industry. Dr. Nayana's expertise and the interactive nature of the session made it a rewarding experience for all participants. About 34 students attended the session. The knowledge gained is expected to have a positive impact on the participants' academic pursuits and professional endeavors within the dynamic field of tourism.
