PROGRAM REPORT

VADAKKINI FOOD FEST

31.03.2022

In a noble effort to support the treatment of two patients, the NSS GEMS unit organized a heartwarming food fest named "Vadakkini." This event brought together the entire college community, uniting them for a compassionate cause. The innovative approach of holding a competition based on departments added an element of excitement, resulting in a total of 14 vibrant stalls showcasing diverse cuisines and creative arrangements. The competition not only stirred up friendly rivalry but also awakened a renewed sense of enthusiasm within the college. The array of different foods and unique stall designs provided both teachers and students with an exceptional culinary and visual experience. The event, which began with the inauguration by Dr. Naveen Mohan Sir at 11 a.m., marked the start of a day filled with camaraderie, gastronomic delights, and heartfelt contributions. Recognizing the efforts put forth by the participants, the event organizers offered prizes in various categories.

The awards for the best food, the best stall, and the stall with the highest sales motivated participants to showcase their culinary and creative talents, resulting in a vibrant and engaging fest. The festivities continued throughout the day, keeping the campus abuzz with energy and activity until 4 p.m. Beyond the excitement and enjoyment, the heartwarming aspect of the event was the collective contribution towards a noble cause. The food fest managed to raise a substantial sum of 67,000 rupees, serving as a testament to the power of community engagement and compassion. This amount has been donated for bone marrow transplantation to a patient named Rajula. Through this event, the NSS GEMS unit showcased not only their dedication to aiding those in need but also their ability to unite the college community for a higher purpose. In conclusion, the Vadakkini food fest organized by the NSS GEMS unit stands as a remarkable example of blending enjoyment with philanthropy. The competition-based approach, the diverse array of foods, and the creative stall setups infused vitality into the college atmosphere. With its successful fundraising outcome, this event demonstrated how unity and compassion can come together to make a meaningful impact on the lives of those requiring assistance.
